

Against The Grain

words & music by elwood

So you've made your decision,
You've chosen the Son.
But now you realize, there's something wrong,
With what you've done.

Everyone's against you,
Or at least it seems that way,
You've changed your direction.
And you're going against the grain,
. . . against the grain.

*Against the grain,
You've got to show what you believe in,
And go against your feelings.
Against the grain,
Show 'em you've changed,
Prove to them you're not the same.*

Fashion is the joy of fools wisdom,
And sin is the price you pay.
But now you've joined the kingdom,
And you can get up and walk away,
. . . against the grain.

*Against the grain,
You've got to show what you believe in,
And go against your feelings.
Against the grain,
Show 'em you've changed,
Prove to them you're not the same.*

based on James 4:4

©1993 by Elwood McElveen, Jr.