

I Will Forget You, Somehow

words & music by Elwood McElveen, Jr.

There's pictures all over the wall,
There's pictures all over the house,
Pictures of the way we used to be,
But I will forget you, somehow.

Well I still have the same friends,
But it seems different now,
I guess because you're not around,
But I will forget you, somehow.

*I will forget you, somehow,
Someday this heart will mend,
And I've got a feelin',
This heart will start healin',
When your memory ends,
I will forget you, somehow.*

I still see him sometimes,
I hope ya'll are happy now,
I hope it was worth all the pain,
I will forget you, somehow.

I saw you the other day,
Out in the middle of a crowd,
And the pain shot through my heart,
Still I will forget you, somehow.

*I will forget you, somehow,
Someday this heart will mend,
And I've got a feelin',
This heart will start healin',
When your memory ends,
I will forget you, somehow.*

©1995 by Elwood McElveen, Jr.